

Using metadata in Manipula

Boris Allan, Richard Frey and Jim O'Reilly

Traditionally in Blaise we have used Manipula and Maniplus to examine data and Cameleon to examine metadata. This paper shows how these tools work together and demonstrates innovative ways to address common operational issues related to capturing and reusing metadata, manipulating data across rounds of longitudinal studies, and identifying key parameters of partially completed cases.